I am a truck driver that often drives through the cities that xm satellite radio covers. The weather bulletins help me to plan my trips accordingly to have the proper clothes. While the traffic reports help me to plan my route to reduce both idle time and travel time. I feel that this helps to save me money in fuel while reducing the stress on the environment that the running of the engine may cause. There is no other system that keeps up to date records of many cities. I even listen to cities that I will be travelling through several days in advance, up to the day, at the time that i project that i will get there in order to learn what routes are the best to travel during the hour I will travel them. Please don't take this from me and fellow drivers
